U Thant Gets a Rousing Sendoff

By ALEC COLLETT
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Haggard but smiling bravely, U Thant was given a rousing sendoff by his colleagues and staff as he left U.N. headquarters for the last time as secretary-general.

"I am an optimist," Thant told newsmen Thursday night. "I have hope for the future of the United Nations."

"There might be difficulties, perhaps for a couple of years. But things will improve."

Thant said he felt "greatly relieved" at stepping down from the job he often complained has vast responsibilities but little power.

Asked what gave him the greatest satisfaction at the end of 10 years in office, Thant, in a reference to the admission of Communist China this year, replied: "The principle of universality is almost fulfilled, I would say."

He added that his one regret was that the divided countries were still not in the world body, "but I guess the two Germanys will be in next year."

He looked drawn and tired, having returned to work only three weeks ago after hospital treatment for a duodenal ulcer.

The 62-year-old Burmese ended a crisis-ridden decade as chief of the U.N. secretariat with a day of emotional farewells.

Undersecretaries-general rubbed shoulders with messengers, secretaries and clerks at a champagne party given by his personal staff and senior colleagues.

Thant said he would spend the rest of his life helping to achieve the ideals and principles of the United Nations.

Spelling out his philosophy, the mild-mannered Thant added: "The modest man is a strong man; the arrogant man is the weak man."

Throughout the day, a stream of ambassadors and secretariat officials dropped in on Thant in his 38th floor office.

He left his farewell party at 5:30 p.m. to keep his last official appointment, with Ambassador El Hadj Abdoulaye Touré of Guinea.

The memorable decade began for Thant on Nov. 3, 1961, when he became secretary-general following the death of Dag Hammarskjöld in a plane crash in Africa.

Draw Straws to Decide Election
MARKSVILLE, La. (AP) — A close election race has been decided by a straw.

When ballots were cast Dec. 18, Wade Mayeux and Daryl Lemoine drew 518 votes each for a seat on the Avoyelles Parish Police Jury, the parish governing body.

A recount changed nothing.

So, at a meeting of the Parish Democratic Executive Committee on Thursday, Mayeux and Lemoine settled it according to state law. They drew straws. Mayeux won.

Says Bhutto Rather Like a Kennedy

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
RAWALPINDI (AP) — "It's been rather like Kennedy, at least to us Pakistanis," said the dapper man in the Foreign Office after Zulfikar Ali Bhutto's first week as president of Pakistan.

The fiery, fast-moving Bhutto, a wealthy landowner turned populist, is giving his people a whirlwind style of government they have never before experienced.

"This is a government of insomniacs," thundered a television official after Bhutto swore in his cabinet at 3 a.m. Friday.

The president, 44 next month, has swept his predecessor, Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, and other members of his junta into retirement, eliminated every active admiral from the navy and moved the East Pakistani leader, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, from jail to house arrest.

He also has distracted the Pakistanis from the humiliation of their shattering defeat in the East and unconditional ceasefire in the West with promises of reform to help the common people.

The government television network went on the air seven days a week instead of six; under Yahya diplomats joked that it was possible to invite the military president to dinner only on Mondays when the television screen was dark.

Bhutto's governor in the Punjab ordered the tea break in his secretariat limited to 20 minutes.

When Bhutto appeared unannounced Sunday among shoppers at the dusty Raja Bazaar in the most crowded part of Rawalpindi, he left his usual pin-striped suit at home and wore baggy trousers and a long shirt of homespun cotton.

A wealthy landowner himself, Bhutto also has turned down a salary and banned whipping, a penalty often suffered by tenant farmers and laborers.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission recommendations delivered to Congress this week, that the commission be given stronger powers to regulate the investment business, reflects the temper of the past few years.

Self-regulation, the SEC report suggested, has failed. The notion that harmony exists between the interests of the public and the personal interests of the men and institutions of the market is being dispelled.

The next step appears almost pre-ordained: A reduction in the decision-making powers of those who comprise the market and a transfer of that power to the government. In effect, the SEC so recommended.

Forty years of experience led to the conclusion that more regulatory power must reside with the government, less with the industry.

The market collapse of 1929 brought about serious doubts about the efficacy of self-regulation, but the concept was retained, at least in principle.

The market collapsed again in the late 1960s, but in a different way, and self-regulation again came under attack as self-serving.

How does this relate to other changes in the business climate in recent years? There appears to be growing disillusionment with the ability of business to satisfy the public.

Whether or not this dissatisfaction results mainly from a change of attitude by the public, or whether it represents a genuine failure on the part of business, is debatable. It is also, to some degree, irrelevant.

The fact is that the railroads have largely forsaken their rights to haul passengers over long distances, that role being assumed by the National Railroad Passenger Corp., set up by Congress with grants and loans.

The private health insurance industry has been in what it feels is a life-death struggle to retain its business as pressure continues for some sort of national health insurance plan.

The disaffection with business is most loudly proclaimed by the rise of consumerism and the concern with environment. Both movements—if they are not one and the same—charge business with being not only irresponsible but irresponsible as well.

utes at 11 a.m., responding to an order in Bhutto's first presidential speech that "tea parties must come to an end."

The same day the new finance minister, Dr. Mubashir Hasan called his first news conference to announce he was stripping 19 persons of licenses the previous government had given them to start factories.

Also the same day, the government cooled down 1,500 strikers in Karachi who had demanded to see the new Sind Province governor, Bhutto's Oxford-educated cousin, Mumtaz Bhutto. Officials explained Mumtaz was too busy to see them because he was formulating revolutionary plans to help them.

Bhutto and his People's party colleagues, mostly left-leaning intellectuals, have trumpeted their identification with the common man.

Abdul Hafiz Pirzada, 36, a lawyer appointed minister of information and education who like his boss wears fine London-cut suits, said in his first speech: "We know what it is to sweat, what it is to sacrifice and what is honest labor."

Inmate Couldn't Attend Funeral

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Cummins Prison Farm inmate has complained to Gov. Dale Bumpers that he was denied an emergency furlough to attend the funeral of his mother.

Herman L. Davis, who is serving two concurrent 21-year terms for second-degree murder and burglary, said his mother, Mrs. Ben Hawkins, was buried in Little Rock Dec. 7.

Correction Commissioner Terrell Don Hutto confirmed Thursday that Davis was refused permission to attend the funeral.

He indicated that if someone at the prison had made a telephone call to the Pulaski County sheriff's office, Davis probably would have been allowed to be present at his mother's funeral.

"Somebody just dropped the ball," Hutto said.

Hutto said the prison Furlough Committee determined that Davis could attend the funeral only if accompanied by a guard. He said the prison did not have enough guards to send one with inmates on emergency furloughs and that no one at the prison had made arrangements with the Pulaski County sheriff's office to provide an escort and transportation.

Hutto said that someone, probably a chaplain, should have asked the Pulaski County sheriff's office for a guard for Davis but no one did.

The new "Inmate Handbook" prepared by the state Department of Correction a month ago states that prisoners may be released on their own or under supervision in the event of death or critical illness in the immediate family.

Meany Will Work To Replace Nixon

By JERRY BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says the nation's workers are unhappy with President Nixon and his administration and pledges to commit organized labor to an all-out drive to replace him in 1972.

"The public's confidence in its government has been seriously corroded," Meany said in a year-end statement issued Friday.

He accused the Nixon administration of "sudden and disconcerting changes in policies, abandonment of principles for momentary political gain and the reliance of gimmickry, government by surprise and the wholesale destruction of candor."

The 77-year-old labor chief, who has differed sharply with the wage-price restraints imposed by Nixon to bank the fires of inflation, said organized labor "will make political action our most important undertaking of the coming year."

"Through our votes," Meany said, "we are firmly convinced we can achieve a fully employed nation, dedicated to improving the life of her ordinary citizens, protected against the virus of inflation, secure in the knowledge that both the young and the old will be governed with compassion, understanding and concern."

The coming year will be "difficult and challenging," Meany said. "The economic roadsigns are not encouraging; the social problems grave; the foreign outlook bleak."

"The present leadership of America has shown no competence for dealing with these problems which spell suffering and hardship to millions of our citizens," he added.

Court Contests Marriage of Men
MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) The state of New Hampshire has moved to dissolve the marriage of two men.

Atty. Gen. Warren Rudman on Thursday filed a petition in Hillsboro County Superior Court for a declaratory judgment dissolving "the marriage, so-called" between Francis Mucka and Neil Trudella, aias Tina Marie Trudella.

Rudman acted after Nashua City Clerk Lionel Gilbert sought his advice.

Some Quotable Notes: Their Toasts to 1972

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — We live in a world we don't know the meaning of.

Many an American, rising at midnight tonight to toast the advent of 1972, will lift his glass and exclaim heartily:

"Here's mud in your eye!"

What does the phrase mean? He doesn't know—but he likes the ring of it.

Well, according to Julius Wile, wine authority and importer of Bollinger champagne and other foreign potables, "mud" is a colloquial term for the natural sediment found in the bottom of bottles of fine wines. In other words, "here's mud in your eye" is the same thing as saying "bottoms up."

How about the origin of "toast" itself? Wile notes that the meaning dates back to the Stuart days in Merrie Olde England, when social gatherings often took place around a huge fireplace. Bread was toasted over the fire and crumbled into cups of warmed wine or liquor. Then one drank one's "toast."

For some time Louis Sobol, a longtime chronicler of celebrities and their ways, has made an annual collection of their personal toasts to the New Year. Here are a few he has gathered for 1972.

Actor Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.: "Here's to today. Not yesterday, not tomorrow, but today. These are the good old days—if only we knew what to do with them."

Hostess Perle Mesta: "So here's love to one, friendship to a few, and good will to all."

Actor Cary Grant: "Here's to wine and women, mirth and laughter—resolutions and aspirin on New Year's Day after."

Newscaster Walter Cronkite: "Here's to world peace. May that be the way it is on Dec. 31, 1972."

Composer Henry Mancini: "May friendship, like wine, improve as time advances; and may we always have old wine, old friends, and young cares."

Singer Pearl Bailey: "At this New Year's time, I don't want confetti streaming down my throat, nor the noise with all the trimmings. I love the peace and quiet of knowing God has given me another day that could stretch out as long as a year. That is the New Year."

Actor Jackie Gleason: "May you live to be a thousand years old ... And I go to your funeral."

Television star Roger Moore: "May you live as long as you want to, may you want to as long as you live."

Well, as the old saying goes, "Here's mud in your eye!" See you next year. It looks like a great year for tomato juice.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Montgomery Ward Co. has given $1,069 to the Arkansas Foundation of Associated Colleges to be shared by the foundation's seven member colleges.

The member colleges are Arkansas College, the College of the Ozarks, Harding College, Hendrix College, John Brown University, Ouachita Baptist University and Southern Baptist College.

May Ask Aide to Stop Deals

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Thursday that he might ask one of his key advisers to give up doing business with the state.

The governor commented after the Memphis Commercial Appeal reported that Martin Borchert had been selling building materials to a variety of Arkansas government agencies.

The article said Borchert's building materials company had made sales to Cummins Prison Farm and the state Highway Department.

Borchert was quoted in the article as saying he had sold materials since the firm was organized in North Little Rock in 1961 and that all sales were secured through low bids on state requisitions.

Bumpers said there was probably nothing wrong with Borchert doing business with the state but he did not like the appearance of it.

Asked if he contemplated asking Borchert to avoid doing business with the state, Bumpers said, "I might. I'll discuss it with him. Frankly, I don't know if there's anything wrong with it, if he's been doing that for 10 years, and I doubt that it constitutes a significant part of his business, but I certainly will check it out. There again, it's a matter of the appearance of the thing."

Borchert was quoted by the Commercial Appeal as saying he saw no conflict of interest between the position on the governor's staff and sales to state agencies.

Cushman Sworn in as Commander
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr. has been sworn in as the 25th commander of the Marine Corps.

The 57-year-old Cushman said during Thursday's ceremonies, "I'd like to promise that the corps will be kept lean and mean and that we'll take care of our own."

Doss said his major problem as tax assessor-collector would be his inexperience, and he said he would get help from an expert provided by the center for black-elected officials at Tougaloo College near Jackson.

Doss, who estimated only five of the 2,229 votes he got were from whites, said he has been treated courteously, but he is not sure how much help he will be given by white elected officials, such as the white-dominated county board of supervisors.

Dan McCay, a white elected sheriff to succeed his wife, said he would be happy to help Doss—as long as the aid is requested and not demanded.

McCay, who said black votes helped him to victory over a black opponent, said he felt he would get along well with Doss.

Juan Carlos Is Official Heir

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco, Spain's chief of state, has dismissed speculation that the coming marriage of his eldest granddaughter might affect the hopes of Franco's designated heir.

In his year-end address Thursday Franco said Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, designated as king of Spain, "assures the future of our country."

Prior to this there had been speculation that the marriage of Maria del Carmen Martinez-Bordiu Franco and Prince Alfonso de Borbon y Dampierre might affect Juan Carlos's status as Franco's heir.

Franco, who indicated he will remain in power until he dies, said the naming of Juan Carlos in 1969 as his successor "assures both the continuation and firmness of our system."

Mississippi Teacher New Tax Assessor

By HUGH MORGAN
Associated Press Writer
PORT GIBSON, Miss. (AP) — A 23-year-old schoolteacher newly sworn into office as Mississippi's only black county tax collector-assessor says he plans to see "every person is assessed fairly, regardless of race, white or black."

"Somebody said we're going to get rid of all the white folks. But that's not true," Evan Doss said Friday at swearing-in ceremonies outside the Claiborne County Courthouse.

"If they want to work with us, fine. We'll work with them. We're here to see freedom, equality, justice for all mankind," he told a crowd of several hundred persons, nearly all black.

Doss was among eight blacks elected to office in Claiborne County during the Nov. 2 general election, the major single victory for black candidates in Mississippi.

Seven of the eight were sworn in Friday. White officials planned no ceremony for their installations.

About three-fourths of the 10,006 residents in the southwestern Mississippi county are black.

Across the state, about 50 of the estimated 300 black candidates for county offices were successful. Blacks took control of none of the state's 82 counties despite a majority registration in about 10 counties.

Charles Evers, black mayor of Fayette who was defeated in November in his attempt to become governor, said at the ceremonies, "There are those of us who lost the battle, but we ain't lost the war."

"Let's go and get as much as we can get, because it makes you feel good to be in charge of something. We've been behind too long," Evers said.

He said blacks were not going to settle for their victories in Claiborne County, because "we want it all, then share some, because our brothers have had it all these years," and they didn't give up anything.

Doss said his major problem as tax assessor-collector would be his inexperience, and he said he would get help from an expert provided by the center for black-elected officials at Tougaloo College near Jackson.

CLASS PORTRAIT

Now here's a revolutionary, new-style class portrait, apt for an age of youthful repudiation of the orthodox. "Smile, please" indeed! With wit, courage and imagination, fourth-graders of Maple Hill Elementary School in Castleton, N.Y., posing for a group photograph, decided to immortalize themselves just as they are—or even worse: no faked graciousness. They were having a visit from photographer Arnold LeFevre, who encouraged them to "ham" for the group photo which he took. As the result shows, they proved singularly uninhibited "hams."

The big thrill was for the kids to get into the act themselves by taking their own solo portraits using the method shown in the picture in the bottom right hand corner of the page. When each sitter judged the best—or worst—expression had been achieved, he or she took the shot by means of a rubber bulb on a long cord attached to the camera. All in all the visit was a great creative success—and produced a series of photos which will not be forgotten in a hurry.

STITCHIN' TIME

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

How do you keep your bound buttonholes from raveling? With a little clear nail polish. Right?

Wrong.

Super-workmanship can make a super-outfit, even if the fabric is a $2.98-a-yard polyester knit. Right?

Wrong.

There is nothing, absolutely nothing, quite so educational as judging garments on hangers, getting a moth's-eye view of seams and buttonholes, linings and facings, handstitching and machine stitching. As one of three judges in the semifinals of the Singer World Stylemaker Contest, I had a rare opportunity to inspect 87 garments, each of which had won a pair of electric scissors and a "Touch and Sew" sewing machine for its maker in previous judgments. These garments, then, were the cream of the crop, the best-of-show in three age groups from 29 regions.

The other two judges were Belle Rivers, Director of Talon Consumer Services, and Ina R. Stevens, Fashion Coordinator for Stacy Fabrics Corp. It took us two days to choose the 18 garments — six from each of the three age groups. All finalists receive cash prizes; the three "Queens of Sewing" receive jet trips abroad.

While judging, selecting, sorting, eliminating, discussing and deciding, we came up with three basic rules for contestants, and a whole batch of inside tips. First, the rules:

1. Use good fabrics. On a rack with a couple of dozen garments, good fabrics stand out. They hang better, they stand up to packing, unpacking, pressing and general handling; and they make your sewing look better.

2. Don't over sew. The new doubleknits, whether of cotton, wool, synthetics, or blends, require simple sewing techniques. They simply don't need such refinements as bound seams; even an underlining is often too much. Suit your sewing to the fabric, and save your best workmanship for deserving fabrics.

3. Have fun with your sewing! Browns and grays and murky neutrals are O.K. — but what's wrong with red, a swinging print, a wild plaid? Only the youngest sewers went in for color — the middle and older age groups seemed terrified of it. Fabric and color are terrific turn-ons — make them work for you! And what about some fun clothes?

So much for the rules. Now for a few remarks on technique. Several of the girls used a close buttonhole stitch to sew on hooks and eyes — very nice. Covered snaps rate an approving nod. Remember to sew down the ends of your invisible zippers, and finish your facing edges as nicely as your hem edges.

Now it is up to South to attack diamonds and he should lead to dummy's ace-queen as a starter. Again this is unnecessary but just a matter of keeping in good practice.

If South leads the three spot he will be starting the New Year off very badly. Nothing bad will happen on the first trick but when he leads back to his king East will show out and all of a sudden that 10 spot will look like a blocking back on the Vikings.

When he leads it West will play low and if he wins in dummy the jack will be high; if he ducks dummy will be dead.

So any South who wants a happy New Year had better play the 10 the first time.

Chinese Men

By HARI SUBRAMANIAM
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A small group of Americans and European tourists watching the annual "fire-walking-ceremony" at the Lim Thien Kong (Paradise) Temple gasped in shocked disbelief.

One of them remarked, "They are going to be burnt alive."

But the more than 100 Chinese male devotees, all dressed in white to signify purity, did not flinch.

The devotees, averaging about 35-years-old, stepped barefoot on to the charcoal fire, one-foot deep, 20-feet long and six-foot wide and, went across chanting prayers to God to forgive them their sins.

There were some, especially the younger ones, who ran across quickly. But the older ones, especially those who had done it several times in previous years, walked across slowly with bowed heads and in deep prayer. They did not fear the fire for the gods would protect them they said. Not one of the devotees who walked the fire had a burn on his feet.

One Western-trained doctor summed it up as "one of those mysteries of the East. Maybe they are hypnotized and do not fear the fire. But still they don't get burnt." I don't know.

The fire-walking climaxed the festival of Kau Ong Yah which falls on the ninth day of the ninth month of the lunar calendar.

They eat only one full vegetarian meal a day and pray for nine days at the gaily decorated temple asking forgiveness for any sins they may have committed. On the ninth day the fire walking climaxes the festival.

A priest goes round the fire chanting prayers before the devotees walk on it.

Some of the devotees carry the image of Chinese gods in wooden miniature altars on their shoulders when fire walking.

Organizations that benefit are the Metropolitan Opera, New York Philharmonic, Juilliard School, New York City Ballet, New York City Opera, Repertory Theater of Lincoln Center, Film Society of Lincoln Center, Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center and Lincoln Center.

SO YOU WANT TO BE

Trucking Is the Road to Riches

By ERNIE HOOD

Most Americans find a lure to the open road. Some want to get away from it all.

Others want to see what's on the other side of the mountain.

Whatever the reason, an average of about 30,000 jobs a year are expected to become available to young people during the 1970s as the trucking industry expands in pace with the general economic growth of the nation.

About 20,000 more young people also will be needed annually to take the place of experienced workers who retire, die or change their line of work.

However, as Kevin Kasunic notes in the summer issue of the Occupational Outlook Quarterly, employment in trucking will not increase as fast as the demand for trucking services.

Technological developments, plus a continuing trend toward larger, more efficient firms, will increase output per worker, and the need for new workers will be different for each occupation.

For material handlers, for example, hiring is expected to increase slowly because of more efficient freight-handling methods.

By contrast, employment of truck drivers is expected to increase rapidly, even though improved highways and vehicles will hasten movement of bigger loads at higher speeds, reducing driving requirements per ton of freight moved.

Compared with smaller organizations, large companies will hire proportionately more accountants, personnel workers, clerks, salesworkers, truck mechanics and foremen.

Accordingly, as Kasunic points out, employment in most of these occupations should increase very rapidly as the size of the companies increases.

On the other hand, because use terminal managers make up a greater proportion of employment in small firms, where they perform many tasks assigned to other workers in large companies, demand for their services will grow slowly.

Working conditions, of course, vary greatly among the various occupations within the industry. Truck driving, for example, is both physically and mentally demanding. Over-the-road drivers frequently work at night and most often spend considerable time away from home. Local drivers usually work only during the day. Material handlers and truck drivers' helpers have strenuous jobs, handling heavy loads. The duties of truck mechanics and other maintenance personnel generally are not physically strenuous, but may have to be done in awkward, cramped positions while servicing vehicles.

Young people interested in becoming professional truck drivers should begin by taking the driver-training courses offered in high school. Courses in auto mechanics are also helpful. Most truck mechanics learn their skills by serving as helpers to experienced mechanics. Job openings for helpers and apprentices frequently are filled by promoting lesser skilled people, such as lubrication men and washers. However, many companies do hire inexperienced young men for helper and apprentice positions.

In 1970, nonsupervisory workers in the trucking industry averaged $162.27 for a 41.5-hour week, or $3.91 an hour, compared with $120.16 for a 37.2-hour week or $3.23 an hour in private nonagricultural industries as a whole. In the trucking industry, average earnings are relatively high because of the high earnings of truck drivers. Many over-the-road drivers earn more than $200 a week.

A large number of trucking industry employees are members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

Further information on schools and careers in the trucking business in general is available from the American Trucking Associations, 1616 P Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Poulos is so shy he almost shook when surrounded by newsmen after he led Georgia to a 7-3 victory over North Carolina in the battle-of-the-brothers Gator Bowl football game Friday.

He shook, too, when running with the football, but this had nothing to do with modesty.

"He's shaking all over his body when he comes through that line," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, illustrating by waving his hand like a go-go dancer's shimmy. "He shakes so that a defensive player doesn't know where to grab for him."

The 178-pound sophomore tailback was easily the star of the show and was designated so by all but two of the 41 newspaper and broadcast voters.

"North Carolina was keying so much on quarterback Andy Johnson, that we couldn't run the option play," Dooley said. "It had to be Poulos — or it wasn't much of anything. We couldn't have won without him."

Poulos made 161 yards rushing and the lone touchdown while other stars of the offense had to settle for peanuts.

It was Poulos's 25-yard touchdown run with 1:39 left in the third quarter that gave Georgia's Vince Dooley the victory over his brother, Coach Bill Dooley of North Carolina.

"He outcoached me," Vince said. "But we won and that's what it's all about. But I wouldn't want to play him again. There's too much emotion involved and his team is too strong."

"We had our chances to win," declared Bill Dooley, also confessing to mixed emotions about playing his brother's team. "We threw away opportunities after Jim Webster blocked a punt in the second quarter—and didn't he play a whale of a game and again when Rusty Culbreth returned a punt to their 38."

Culbreth's return in the third quarter resulted in a missed 64-yard field goal by Ken Craven seven minutes after he put North Carolina ahead with a 35-yarder.

After the missed field goal, Georgia marched 80 yards in seven plays. A 31-yard pass from Johnson to split end Lynn Hunnicutt set up Poulos' touchdown dash.

"That pass had to be the turning point in the game," Vince Dooley said. "If Hunnicutt had been Terry Beasley of Auburn, we'd have scored on that play. But Poulos got it for us on the next one, and we controlled the game in the closing minutes."

Webster was picked from an array of tough Tar Heel defenders as most valuable for the losers.
